

CARDIAC PET STRESS TEST INSTRUCTIONS

Woodholme Cardiovascular Associates - 1838 Greene Tree Road, Suite 535. Pikesville, MD 21208

Patient's Name: _____

Date of Test: _____

Arrival Time: _____

Testing Procedure

1. A Nuclear Medicine Technologist will explain the test, obtain written consent, and start an IV.
2. Electrocardiogram (ECG) electrodes and leads will be placed on your chest to monitor your heart.
3. You will be asked to lay on your back on the PET scanner.
4. A small amount of nuclear tracer will be injected. The tracer is used to image blood flow to your heart. There are no common side effects associated with the tracer. The first set of images will be acquired.
5. The stress phase of the exam is usually preformed with a pharmaceutical that makes your heart respond as if you were exercising. The pharmaceutical will be injected through the IV.
6. A second injection of the tracer will be given during the stress phase and the second set of images will be acquired.
7. Once all images are acquired you will be free to leave.
